

Standing here- in the middle of nowhere but also, getting sucked up into a whirlpool, of plants. I grabbed onto the plants and tried to pull my self up but it was no use, I grabbed onto the branch above me but the force hugged my legs and I couldn't get up! My only option was to let it take me (I could have called for help but the island was deserted so it wouldn't make a difference.) It took longer than I expected -and hoped- but when I found myself in yet another forest I saw treasure about 20 metres to my right but in front of me- a forest maze-probably leading to the treasure. I thought to myself, "I am on an adventure so I may as well do the maze!" But it turns out- yet again- I made the wrong choice. I burnt my fingers off from the fires dotted around the maze, and whacked my head off the poles over the fires making it even harder to get over as you have to get under that at the same time! But when I got there I opened the chest, inside wasn't treasure... It was a key and right next to me was a trap door...

Well I went down and finally made a right choice as I found a caveman tribe. I tried to join in and when I saw them one of them bellowed, "OOGA WOOGA BOOOOOOGA!"

So I said with no clue what I was saying, "MOOGA DREWGA!" (I thought I was saying "My name is Drew," but it turns out I was saying "I will pass any trial for you if I get a reward of my choice!") But I'll take it, I can ask them to take me back to Kingswinford. I shouldn't have got my hopes up though because I had to kill a lion that takes all of their things. I decided to conquer the lion, although when I got to the cave it lives in, I realised my left arm had disappeared. I defeated the lion and I got everyone's things back, except my arm (I have a robot arm now) and the cavemen took me back to Kingswinford.