

Shrove Tuesday is also called Pancake Day in Britain. It is a Christian festival, which takes place every year on the day before the start of Lent on Ash Wednesday.

Shrove Tuesday is a time to enjoy pancakes made from eggs, milk, flour and sugar. In the past, these foods were not eaten during Lent. Today, many celebrations take place around the world to mark this period before Lent.

Celebrating often involves sending cards...

I would like you to design a card- some ideas are in the link below and send it to a friend in your class this pancake day- it's on Tuesday 16th February- so you've got a bit of time to make and then post it!

I hope you all enjoy celebrating and making/eating pancakes too!
